ABSTRACT

This annually revised bibliography lists books on subjects of special interest and appeal to teenagers. Selected by the Committee on Books for Young Adults, which is composed of librarians who work with teenagers in the New York Public Library, the approximately 1,250 titles and brief annotations are arranged under the following main headings: Here/Now; Mind's Eye: The Arts and Fiction; Science; Action, Adventure, and Other Things to Do; and the Global Village. An index of subject matter precedes the list, while an alphabetical index of titles follows it. (RL)

BOOKS FOR THE TEEN AGE, 1981

This is a list of books, revised annually, on subjects of special interest and appeal to teenagers. Emphasis in selection of titles is on presentation which is clear, vivid, appealing, imaginative. All the books have been read and selected by the Committee on Books for Young Adults which is made up of librarians who work with teenagers in The New York Public Library. A majority of the approximately 1250 titles have been chosen from adult publications. The juvenile titles listed have value for all ages. Out-of-print books are included only when they are still generally available in public libraries. Although most of the books listed are hard cover editions, many are available in paperback, and some are paperback only. New books, most of which have been published in 1980 are indicated by an asterisk().*

The books are constantly tested and tried with teenage readers in New York City. Since teenagers vary greatly in their interests, maturity, and reading ability, the books on this list vary greatly in difficulty and depth. They are not necessarily shelved in young people's collections because they do represent such a wide range from simple to complex, from light to profound.

They form a permanent exhibition in the Office of Young Adult Services, and at the Nathan Straus Young Adult Library, Donnell Library Center, 20 West 53rd Street. This library has a large collection of books, magazines, and filmstrips, and an informal browsing section. Film programs, poetry workshops, craft demonstrations, and other activities of interest to teenagers are frequently scheduled at this center.

Every branch has many of the books on this list and other books of special interest to the teen age. They also have programs for teenagers from time to time. If you want advice about books and reading, if you want the schedules of programs in all branches, or if you would like to know how you can take part in the Library's radio program, Teen Age Book Talk, check with the Nathan Straus Young Adult Library, 621-0633, or with the Office of Young Adult Services, 741-1967.

Highlights from this Section

Daddy King: An Autobiography, by Martin Luther King, Sr. and Clayton Riley. William Morrow and Company, Inc., 1980

"My life has been chronicled for history because I hope and pray that it will be an inspiration to the young people who read it not to be overwhelmed by the odds against them, and I offer my fervent prayers that succeeding generations will not have to struggle to prove to themselves and to this great nation of ours their human worth, as I have had to struggle to prove mine."

Laying Waste: The Poisoning of America by Toxic Chemicals, by Michael H. Brown. Pantheon Books, 1980

"Already land-dumped chemicals were threatening the water supply near Rehoboth, Massachusetts, and discarded chemical drums reportedly had killed thousands of fish in Tennessee's Boone Reservoir. No part of the country was safe from the toxic residues accumulating, unnoticed and untended, at a disastrous rate."

Prime-Time America: Life On and Behind the Television Screen, by Robert Sklar. Oxford University Press, 1980

"As the most pervasive medium of communications in contemporary American life, television may also be the least understood... These essays attempt in various ways to illuminate the cultural processes of American television—the culture and values depicted on the screen, the people and practices behind the screen—during the latter half of the 1970s."

Maynard's House, by Herman Raucher. G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1980

"Whatever the explanation, weariness or wistfulness, all that lay before Austin's gaze was so invitingly familiar, so dizzily déjà vu that, though logic could dispute it, he immediately knew two warming and irrefutable truths: He was home. And he had been there before."

Unbuilding, by David Macaulay. Houghton Mifflin Company, 1980

"On April 1, 1989, Prince Ali Smith called together the twenty-six members of the Greater Riyadh Institute of Petroleum, also known as GRIP. The purpose of the gathering was to review a number of proposals for the new and much-needed GRIP headquarters... Ali... explained that it was his intention to dismantle and ship the Empire State Building and re-erect it in the Arabian desert."

SCIENCE

Highlights from this Section

Hands, by John Napier. Pantheon Books, 1980

"There is nothing comparable to the human hand outside nature. We can land men on the moon but, for all our mechanical and electronic wizardry, we cannot reproduce an artificial forefinger that can feel as well as beckon."

Squirrel Book, by Eugene Kinkead. E. P. Dutton, 1980

"Far and away the squirrel's most notable physical characteristic is its long, full, and undulating tail... It serves as a sunshade; as a blanket in cold or stormy weather; as an expressive aid to communication...as a counterbalance in effecting marvelously quick turns; as an aerial rudder when its owner leaps from branch to branch, and as a parachute to soften the impact of occasional falls."

Synapsida: A New Look into the Origins of Mammals, by John C. McLoughlin. The Viking Press, 1980

"We owe our success to the countless lives and hard times of our premammalian ancestors, whose stories remain encapsulated in our beings like successive layers in an onion. The ghosts of those ancestors haunt us still... This book is a look at their history, the grand tale of the class of 'beasts' of which the writer and the reader of these words are the handiest representatives."

ACTION, ADVENTURE AND OTHER THINGS TO DO

Highlights from this Section

Going for the Gold: How the U.S. Won at Lake Placid, by Tim Wendel. Lawrence Hill & Company, 1980

"Across the country, those who love and play hockey are happy. Their joy is because of 20 young men who for two weeks made the sport as exciting and as beautiful as it has ever been."

Scott and Amundsen, by Roland Huntford. G. P. Putnam's Sons, 1980

"Thus began the race for the South Pole. For the privilege of being the first to tread this useless yet so desirable spot, both men were prepared to drag themselves 1,500 miles across a frozen wilderness, and face any extremity of suffering and danger... The poles of the earth had become an obsession of Western man."

The World of Coins and Coin Collecting, by David L. Ganz. Charles Scribner's Sons, 1980

"Coin collecting, or numismatics, is more than the accumulation of old money, medals, and tokens. It involves both art and investment, and it provides an enjoyable way to learn about a country and its people, past and present."

THE GLOBAL VILLAGE

Highlights from this Section

Children of the Jinn: In Search of the Kurds and Their Country, Margaret Kahn. Seaview Books, 1980

"What follows is the story of my search for Kurdistan in Iran of the 1970s, Iran of the shah and his secret police. When I returned for another visit in 1978, Kurdistan was more visible, partly because I knew where to look for it, partly because the shah's power was weakening. Now the shah has toppled and no one knows exactly what will happen in Iran..."

The Chinese, by David Bonavia. Lippincott, 1980

"They are the most paradoxical of nations... They are admirable, infuriating, humorous, priggish, modest, overweaning, mendacious, loyal, mercenary, ethereal, sadistic, and tender. They are quite unlike anybody else. They are the Chinese."

Crisis at Central High: Little Rock, 1957-58, by Elizabeth Huckaby. Louisiana State University Press, 1980

"This is not the story behind the integration of Little Rock Central High School. It is not the story of why things happened as they did. It is the story of what happened, September, 1957, to May, 1958, as I saw it... Few teachers at Central knew all the Nine as I did... Because they were likeable, admirable young people and perhaps, too, because their precarious situation at school caused me so much concern, I loved each one."
